

Northwestern Benefits for Retirees and Other Resources

The University offers a comprehensive suite of benefits for its retirees, including continued library access, discounts to many University cultural and athletic events, and access to discounted software purchases. Some benefits are available to all retirees while others are only for emeriti. These benefits signal the University's continuing commitment to retirees as part of its community.

Visit the Office of Human Resources website at www.northwestern.edu/hr/benefits/retirement/index.html

for detailed, comprehensive information on retirement procedures and healthcare benefits.

The Northwestern Emeriti Organization is the University-wide body for emeriti faculty. Its mission is to advocate for the interest of emeriti, provide stimulating programs and events for emeriti, and connect emeriti with the University and local communities. All emeriti are members of NEO. Members will be happy to talk confidentially with prospective faculty retirees. While NEO does not offer financial or legal advice, its members may be able to share personal experiences and respond to specific questions from prospective retirees. Contact the NEO at emeritus-org@northwestern.edu or visit emeriti.northwestern.edu to learn more.